HOLLOWELL CASE

whipping him and his wife and driving them from the state to prevent their testifying concerning the raid on Princeton the night of December 1, 1906.

The jurors were all summoned from Jefferson and Bullitt counties, nearly 200 miles from the scene of the tobacco trouble, and they were summoned by mail, so that no one knew who they would be. Only one of them, E. W. Alt, of Louisville, said he had made up his mind so completely from newspaper accounts of the former trial, that it could not be changed.

The jurors are James A. Nichols, George D. Lee, Fred Bicker and N. E. Wigginton, of Louisville; H. L. Smyser, of Jefferson county; Logan Hedges and B. F. Pope, of Okaloosa; L. W. Nichols, of Cuyler, Bullitt county; J. T. Collins, Sheppardsville; Charles K. Parker, Highland Park, and Thomas S. Allison, of Anchorage.

Immediately after the jury was empaneled John G. Miller, Sr., for the plaintiff, stated his case, and was followed by Ruby Laffoon, who made no apologies for the outrage committed on Robert Hollowell, but declared his ability to establish the innocence of the defendants.

The taking of evidence began at 10:15 o'clock. There were a number of new faces in the court room. Robert Hollowell, the plaintiff took the stand and said he heard the shooting on the farm and thought of night riders. He and his wife got up and dressed. When they heard the order, "Close up, Men," they hid behind the bed in a room, the window sash of which was shot out when a volley was fired into the house. He heard people say: "Come out, Mary," and some one on the roof shouted for matches and coal oil.

When he went out he saw John E. and Lulu Hollowell and George Brown, and John E. Hollowell said: "Shoot her."

George Brown ordered the boys down from the roof. George Brown said to Mary Hollowell, plaintiff's wife, "You have been before the grand jury and testified against John E. and John W. Hollowell, but you will never go before another." He said: "You have done all you could against the association. You must leave here. We give you a week to join."

Then, witness said, they tore him away from his wife and child. Otis Smith, Buck Lacey and Firm Oliver were on the house.

Two men, he said, took him by the arm and another held a pistol. They took him to the yard and pulled off his coat and searched him and cursed him. They called him a "plant-bed scraper."

They discussed how many licks to give him. Some said 50 and some said more.

Witness told of being dragged into the yard and of being whipped with buggy whips.

He recited the alleged visit to his house that morning after the raid by John E. Hollowell and the Oliver boys and told of John E. Hollowell shooting at and missing his wife. He recognized all the defendants, excepting John W. Hollowell. He went to Joe Murphy's, where he was told to go, and signed the tobacco pledge. Murphy is an association prize.

He said his wife had been before the grand jury to testify about the Princeton raid. He told of the sacrifice he made in selling the farm. None of the defendants were masked in the raid, he said. There were 75 or 80 altogether. He saw no tracks or horses and heard none.

Mr. Hollowell was made the defendants' witness and was asked if he and his wife did not leave the state after Mrs. Hollowell was indicted for scraping the plant bed of John E. Hollowell. He said not, and the court told the defendants' attorneys they were estopped from contradicting their own witness.

Mrs. Hollowell was not permitted to testify for her husband and plaintiffs took exceptions.

Price Hollowell.
The testimony of Price Hollowell, the 12-year-old son of Robert and Mary Hollowell, did not vary in the least with his story told at the former trial. He told about the mob coming and shooting up the home. They went out when threats were made to burn. Uncle Johnny, Aunt Lulu and George Brown were on the porch when they went out. He heard John E. Hollowell say, "Shoot her, Jim; damn her, shoot her!" His father was led away and after they had gone with him some one shot at the mother, the ball striking her in the face. He was the only one of the three to recognize John W. Hollowell in the mob.

Ernest Eastman, brother-in-law of the plaintiff, testified as to the condition of the plaintiff after the whipping.

The Defense.
The plaintiff rested soon after the noon recess and the defense commenced establishing alibis.

Mrs. Lulu Hollowell, wife of John E. Hollowell, was at home with her husband and children. Joseph Murphy, the tobacco prize, stayed all night at their house.

John W. Hollowell said he was at home, as members of his family testified. He and his wife and two grown sons and his daughter slept in one room of a five-room house, and Earl Hollowell was sick. His father spoke to him after midnight.

None of them heard of Mr. Hollowell's alleged connection with the raid until ten months afterward when suit was brought.

Mrs. Maggie Crawford, of Grahamville, arrived last night on a visit to her sister, Mrs. John D. Smith.

NEWS OF COURTS

No Circuit Court.

Circuit court was not in session today, having been adjourned by Judge Reed in respect to the death of Mr. W. D. Greer, who practiced in this court for so many years. The court will be resumed tomorrow morning probably with Judge William Reed on the bench. Judge Reed was benefited by his sojourn in Dawson Springs, but it is possible that he may not yet be strong enough to finish this term. In that event, Special Judge J. K. Hendrick will preside.

County Court.

County Judge Lightfoot convened the regular term of county court this morning and the back tax suit of State Revenue Agent C. W. Emery were the features of the morning session. Revenue Agent Emery scored a point when Judge Lightfoot ruled that the defendants to the tax suits must bear the burden of proof that they have not failed to list the property stated in the revenue agent's suits.

Judgment was given against William Banks, with the penalty, on five wagons. Suits against the other defendants are being tried this afternoon. Compromises are looked for by Agent Emery in a majority of the suits, the attorney for Mrs. R. Burghauer having satisfied a willingness to settle out of court.

Commissioners were appointed in county court this morning to survey a new road from Massac creek to the Lovelaceville road. The residents in the district affected filed the petition for the road. Judge Lightfoot appointed R. W. R. Hocker, Bob Parrish and Pat Ross commissioners.

Demurrers to the suits of State Revenue Agent Emery against citizens for back taxes were sustained in a number of the cases this morning. The suit against the Sutherland Medicine company was dismissed, but will be appealed. T. J. Stahl & company were adjudged the wrong parties and the suit against them was dismissed, but Agent Emery will re-enter the suit in the name of the Regie contract people. The Kentucky theater suit was dismissed, as was the one against E. G. Boone, Richard D. Bakrow & company, James Sirk and W. L. Yancey. The S. B. Caldwell suit is being tried this afternoon.

F. B. Simpson qualified as guardian of Henry Howard.

Mrs. Mary B. Alexander's will was filed for probate today and Attorney J. D. Mockett will qualify as administrator.

Marriage Licenses.

In Police Green.
In the absence of Police Judge D. A. Cross, Judge E. H. Puryear held court this morning, and handed out justice to the violators of the law. The docket read: Drunk—Cornelia Washington, colored, $2 and costs. Breach of peace—Joe Thomas, colored, $25 and costs; Gilbert Myrick, $2 and costs; Joe Konti, $2 and costs; Frank Pullin, $1 and costs. Grand larceny—Charles Grossheart, continued until May 15.

BROADWAY METHODISTS TO CELEBRATE MAY 24.
Sunday, May 24, will be elaborately observed at the Broadway Methodist church. The main auditorium which has been in the hands of Chicago decorators for the past two weeks will be completed and will be used for the first time. Special services with fine music will mark the day. In the evening the Hon. Jerry M. Porter, of Clinton, Ky., will deliver an address on "The Laymen's Movement," and Mrs. S. H. Winstead will have an especial musical program.

Mr. Porter is a brilliant and witty speaker, and is very popular here, where he formerly lived.

There will be no services next Sunday at Broadway, except the regular Sunday school and Epworth League. The Rev. G. T. Sullivan will preach the commencement sermon for Marvin College, Clinton, Ky., on that day.

Strawberry Season On.
The strawberry crop is on, and this morning 125 strawberry pickers left on the steamer Dick Fowler for Caledonia to pick the berries. Hundreds of acres of the berries are raised about Caledonia, and probably 500 negroes will go from Paducah to the fields. This is exclusive of the pickers from Cairo, Joppa, Brookport and Metropolis. The pickers are supplied with houses to live in, and make good money during the berry season. No trouble was had in getting plenty of the pickers.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Francis are the parents of a girl, born this morning at their home in Rowlandtown.

SCHOOL NOTES
The mock trial will be given at the High school auditorium tomorrow evening, and the public is invited to attend the trial. Will Rock, a senior, will be tried for the murder of Edwin Drew, a fictitious person. The trial promises to be interesting, and a large audience will be present.

Tomorrow morning at opening exercises Mr. Saunders A. Fowler, secretary of the Commercial club, will address the students of the high school.

Miss Edna Rooks, private secretary to Superintendent J. A. Carnegie, has resigned her position, and she has been succeeded by Mrs. A. N. Sanderson.

The choruses for the graduating class have been ordered, and next week practice will begin. The choruses will be: "The Faries' Moonlight Dance," by Lewis Gregh and "The High School March" by Veazie.

SERIES OF SERMONS.
Meeting is now in progress at the Christian Chapel on Goebel Ave.

Prof. N. B. Hardeman, president of the National Teachers and Normal college Henderson, Tenn., and Evangelist W. S. Long, of Union City, will conduct this meeting. The subject for tonight is: "Advantages of Being a Christian."

Guthrie avenue car will take you there. Come every evening at 7:45.
